School's Out for the Summer!

Do you remember that exhilarating feeling of being finished with a goal, such as completing a grade in school, and having a little breathing space before taking on the next big challenge in your life? There probably is nothing sweeter ever again than the carefree childhood days when "school's out for the summer."

I think anticipating that "window of freedom," can be a powerful motivator, even when we are adults. I've always believed in celebrating our victories with small rewards. You may be able to relate to an example such as, "If I can implement one component of the marketing strategy I just learned in a webinar, I can leave work on time today, and have a frosty at Wendy's."

Of course as adults, we always are faced with another project, or two, or three, on stand-by, since all of us tend to be multi-taskers. But, on June 4, the Chamber and City of Seminole are offering you the opportunity to escape from your current responsibilities for an afternoon, and join us for the 35th annual Kids Appreciation Day celebration at Seminole City Park.

I don't know of another community that organizes a party like this, which is geared toward elementary-age school kids. Food, games and prizes, sponsored by civic groups and the business community, are the kids' reward for trying their best at school, and as an incentive for practicing "summer integrity."

I think Dr. Steve Nickse, who has been chairman for a many years, coined that expression. His definition of summer integrity relates to behavior. Kids are encouraged to listen to adults and play nicely with each other. It's also an opportunity for parents to open a dialogue with their kids about goals, knowing that school will be starting again (back to the real world) in a couple of months.

Roger Edelman
Chamber President

Over the past several months the Chamber has gone through, and continues to go through, a complete re-branding effort that includes both internal and external documents, operations and functions.

This was done, in great part, to expand the our visibility and our message out to the community, as well as, to our membership. During the next several years the face of Seminole will change significantly and we want to ensure the Chamber, as the voice of the business community, plays a leadership role in that effort.

A major part of this re-branding effort is a revision of the Chambers logo and promotional material in addition to a totally new web site, designed to be easier to navigate and containing much more information and data about our community.

You and your business have a listing in the member's directory section, along with links to your address, web site, map and e-mail information, if applicable.

It is essential you review this information for accuracy and contact the Chamber, so we can get your 25 word bio, logo and/or picture, set up for visitors to see.

We will be making other changes in the near future and will keep you updated, as we continue to work toward helping support and grow our local business community.
